

1. The Treaties

1. The Treaties

The existing BW governance regime is made up of many elements but two multilateral treaties – the 1925 Geneva Protocol and the 1972 Biological Weapons Convention – stand apart from the rest, acting as the bedrock and the normative heart around which all other elements are built. This section includes the text of both treaties and lists the States Parties, Signatory States and non-Signatory States to both instruments.

The 1925 Geneva Protocol

Full name: Protocol for the Prohibition of the Use in War of Asphyxiating, Poisonous or Other Gases, and of Bacteriological Methods of Warfare

Date of adoption: 17 June 1925

Date of entry into force: 8 February 1928

Depositary: Government of France

States Parties: 133 (as at 18 October 2006)

Signatory States: 1 (as at 18 October 2006)

The 1925 Geneva Protocol prohibits “the use in war of asphyxiating, poisonous, or other gases and of all analogous liquids, materials or devices”, and it also bans “bacteriological methods of warfare.” It was adopted by the Conference for the Supervision of the International Trade in Arms and Ammunition and in Implements of War convened in Geneva by the League of Nations and builds on earlier international agreements on the laws of war, such as those from the 1899 and 1907 peace conferences in The Hague. The Geneva Protocol prohibitions are now widely considered to have entered customary international law, making them binding on all states, whether or not they have formally joined the treaty.

On joining the Geneva Protocol, over 40 states entered reservations. These reservations upheld the right of the reserving states to use the prohibited weapons against non-parties or in response to the use of these weapons by a violating party, or against the allies of the violating party even if they themselves have not committed a violation. These reservations, which were not strictly necessary as the Protocol was expressly drafted as a contract between its parties, reinforced the fact that the Protocol was essentially a no-first-use agreement. As a result of diplomatic pressure and the entry into force of the treaties banning production and possession of these weapons (the 1972 Biological Weapons Convention and the 1993 Chemical Weapons Convention), at least 17 states withdrew their reservations to the Protocol. However, according to a non-paper distributed by France during the 2006 session of the UN General Assembly’s First Committee, around 22 states parties retain reservations that are “often incompatible with the commitments made within the framework of the BTWC and CWC.” Further details on reservations and their withdrawal are provided in the list of states in this section of the Briefing Book.

Since the 1980s, resolutions have been passed by both the United Nations Security Council and General Assembly encouraging the UN Secretary-General to investigate reports of possible violations of the Geneva Protocol. A total of 12 investigations have subsequently been carried out by the Secretary-General, some under the authority of these resolutions. During the Iran-Iraq war of the 1980s UN investigators confirmed the use of chemical weapons by Iraq. In January 1989 States Parties to the Geneva Protocol and other interested states met in Paris to respond to the confirmed use of chemical weapons in the Iran-Iraq war and to support the negotiation of a chemical weapons convention. In the Final Declaration of the conference, they also reaffirmed their “full support for the Secretary-General in carrying out his responsibilities for investigations in the event of alleged violations of the Geneva Protocol.” More detail of the Secretary-General’s investigatory mechanism, and some of the relevant documents, is provided in section 3 of the Briefing Book.

The Geneva Protocol currently has 133 States Parties and one Signatory State. States wishing to ratify or accede to the Geneva Protocol should deposit their instrument of ratification/ accession with the French Government, which is the Depositary of the Protocol. Instruments of ratification or accession should be sent to:

The 1972 Biological Weapons Convention

Full name: Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production and Stockpiling of Bacteriological (Biological) and Toxin Weapons and on Their Destruction
Date of adoption: 16 December 1971 (UN General Assembly)
Date of opening for signature: 10 April 1972 (London, Moscow, Washington)
Date of entry into force: 26 March 1975
Depositaries: Governments of Russia, United Kingdom and United States
States Parties: 155 (as at 18 October 2006)
Signatory States: 16 (as at 18 October 2006)

The 1972 Biological Weapons Convention prohibits the development, production, stockpiling or other acquisition or retention, or transfer of biological and toxin weapons (which are defined in Article I using a general purpose criterion) and requires the destruction of existing weapons. BWC states parties have additionally agreed that BW use is effectively covered by the treaty’s prohibitions. The states parties have therefore renounced germ weapons in order to “exclude completely” the possibility of such weapons being used against humans, animals or plants. States that have signed but not ratified the BWC are nonetheless obliged to refrain from acts which would defeat the object and purpose of the treaty, such as developing or using biological weapons.

The BWC was negotiated by the Conference of the Committee on Disarmament (a precursor of today’s Conference on Disarmament) at a time of heightened international concern about chemical and biological weapons in the late 1960s and was the first occasion when the two categories of weaponry prohibited together in the Geneva Protocol were separated. The justification for separate treatment of the two categories of weapon was the perception that, unlike a comprehensive prohibition of chemical weapons, a ban on biological weapons did not require intrusive verification and that it could therefore be concluded quickly.

The Convention reflects the post-Second World War renunciation of biological weapons by the defeated Axis powers, as found in the 1954 Revised Brussels Treaty, as well as the subsequent unilateral renunciations by other states, particularly by the US in 1969. The BWC extends the existing regime prohibiting the use of chemical or biological weapons (CBW) (elaborated in the 1925 Geneva Protocol), by explicitly banning the development, production, stockpiling and transfer of biological and toxin weapons. However, the BWC essentially makes no provision for any particular procedures or forms of international cooperation or organization to implement its rules, to verify compliance with its obligations (aside from the consultation and cooperation procedure in Article V and the complaint procedure involving the UN Security Council in Article VI) or to enforce its norm of non-possession. The Convention has been strengthened at its periodic Review Conferences (in 1980, 1986, 1991, and 1996 and 2001/02) and an attempt was made during the 1990s to negotiate a protocol to strengthen the BWC, although this ultimately failed in 2001. Section 2 provides more detail and documentation on the Review Conferences and efforts to strengthen the BWC.

According to a list provided at the 2005 Meeting of States Parties, the BWC now has 155 States Parties and 16 Signatory States, while 24 States have neither signed nor ratified the BWC. The depositaries of the BWC are the governments of Russia, the UK and the USA. States wishing to ratify (Signatory States) or accede (non-Signatory States) to the treaty should send their instrument of ratification/accession to one or more of these three countries. The addresses to which instruments of ratification/accession should be sent are on the following page:

Protocol for the Prohibition of the Use in War of Asphyxiating, Poisonous or other Gases, and of Bacteriological Methods of Warfare. Signed at Geneva, June 17, 1925.

French and English official texts communicated by the President of the Council, Minister for Foreign Affairs of the French Republic. The registration of this Protocol took place September 7, 1929.

THE UNDERSIGNED PLENIPOTENTIARIES, in the name of their respective Governments :

Whereas the use in war of asphyxiating, poisonous or other gases, and of all analogous liquids, materials or devices, has been justly condemned by the general opinion of the civilised world; and

Whereas the prohibition of such use has been declared in Treaties to which the majority of Powers of the world are Parties; and

To the end that this prohibition shall be universally accepted as a part of International Law, binding alike the conscience and the practice of nations;

DECLARE:

That the High Contracting Parties, so far as they are not already Parties to Treaties prohibiting such use, accept this prohibition, agree to extend this prohibition to the use of bacteriological methods of warfare and agree to be bound as between themselves according to the terms of this declaration.

The High Contracting Parties will exert every effort to induce other States to accede to the present Protocol. Such accession will be notified to the Government of the French Republic, and by the latter to all signatory and acceding Powers, and will take effect on the date of the notification by the Government of the French Republic.

The present Protocol, of which the French and English texts are both authentic, shall be ratified as soon as possible. It shall bear today's date.

The ratification of the present Protocol shall be addressed to the Government of the French Republic, which will at once notify the deposit of such ratification to each of the signatory and acceding Powers.

The instruments of ratification of and accession to the present Protocol will remain deposited in the archives of the Government of the French Republic.

The present Protocol will come into force for each signatory Power as from the date of deposit of its ratification, and, from that moment, each Power will be bound as regards other Powers which have already deposited their ratifications.

Convention on the Prohibition of the Development, Production and Stockpiling of Bacteriological (Biological) and Toxin Weapons and on Their Destruction

Signed at London, Moscow and Washington on 10 April 1972.

Entered into force on 26 March 1975.

Depositaries: UK, US and Soviet governments.

The States Parties to this Convention,

Determined to act with a view to achieving effective progress towards general and complete disarmament, including the prohibition and elimination of all types of weapons of mass destruction, and convinced that the prohibition of the development, production and stockpiling of chemical and bacteriological (biological) weapons and their elimination, through effective measures, will facilitate the achievement of general and complete disarmament under strict and effective international control,

Recognizing the important significance of the Protocol for the Prohibition of the Use in War of Asphyxiating, Poisonous or Other Gases, and of Bacteriological Methods of Warfare, signed at Geneva on June 17, 1925, and conscious also of the contribution which the said Protocol has already made, and continues to make, to mitigating the horrors of war,

Reaffirming their adherence to the principles and objectives of that Protocol and calling upon all States to comply strictly with them,

Recalling that the General Assembly of the United Nations has repeatedly condemned all actions contrary to the principles and objectives of the Geneva Protocol of June 17, 1925,

Desiring to contribute to the strengthening of confidence between peoples and the general improvement of the international atmosphere,

Desiring also to contribute to the realization of the purposes and principles of the United Nations,

Convinced of the importance and urgency of eliminating from the arsenals of States, through effective measures, such dangerous weapons of mass destruction as those using chemical or bacteriological (biological) agents,

Recognizing that an agreement on the prohibition of bacteriological (biological) and toxin weapons represents a first possible step towards the achievement of agreement on effective measures also for the prohibition of the development, production and stockpiling of chemical weapons, and determined to continue negotiations to that end,

Determined for the sake of all mankind, to exclude completely the possibility of bacteriological (biological) agents and toxins being used as weapons,

Convinced that such use would be repugnant to the conscience of mankind and that no effort should be spared to minimize this risk,

Have agreed as follows:

Article I

Each State Party to this Convention undertakes never in any circumstances to develop, produce, stockpile or otherwise acquire or retain:

- (1) Microbial or other biological agents, or toxins whatever their origin or method of production, of types and in quantities that have no justification for prophylactic, protective or other peaceful purposes;

Article X

- (1) The States Parties to this Convention undertake to facilitate, and have the right to participate in, the fullest possible exchange of equipment, materials and scientific and technological information for the use of bacteriological (biological) agents and toxins for peaceful purposes. Parties to the Convention in a position to do so shall also cooperate in contributing individually or together with other States or international organizations to the further development and application of scientific discoveries in the field of bacteriology (biology) for prevention of disease, or for other peaceful purposes.
- (2) This Convention shall be implemented in a manner designed to avoid hampering the economic or technological development of States Parties to the Convention or international cooperation in the field of peaceful bacteriological (biological) activities, including the international exchange of bacteriological (biological) and toxins and equipment for the processing, use or production of bacteriological (biological) agents and toxins for peaceful purposes in accordance with the provisions of the Convention.

Article XI

Any State Party may propose amendments to this Convention. Amendments shall enter into force for each State Party accepting the amendments upon their acceptance by a majority of the States Parties to the Convention and thereafter for each remaining State Party on the date of acceptance by it.

S/AC.44/2004/(02)/100/Add.1, dated 23 January 2006)]

Explanatory Note -- non-deposits of instruments

Under international law, to become a party to a treaty a state must deposit a relevant instrument with the depositary power (in the case of the Geneva Protocol this is France).

While a number of states believe themselves to be parties to the Geneva Protocol as they have made public statements to that effect they are not parties unless they have deposited a relevant instrument with the French Government. An example of this is Belarus -- On 2 March 1970 the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic stated that "it recognizes itself to be a Party" to the Geneva Protocol of 1925 (United Nations document A/8052, Annex,III).

States claiming succession also need to deposit a relevant instrument with the French Government. Confirming this, the Embassy of France in Stockholm wrote to SIPRI on 26 August 1970 saying "The French Government is of the opinion that a general statement of continuity by a country attaining independence is not sufficient for a depositary power for an international convention to consider that state as being bound by that convention" [unofficial translation]. Notwithstanding this, the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA -- an agency of the US Government) used to include on its list of parties to the Geneva Protocol a category: "By virtue of agreement with former parent State or notification to the Secretary General of the United Nations of succession to treaty rights and obligations upon independence". This category included Bahamas, Botswana, Burma, Guyana, Seychelles and Singapore. These states do not appear in recent lists of parties to the Geneva Protocol produced by the US Department of State (the department that inherited ACDA's responsibilities) based on information supplied by the French Government, nor do they appear on similar lists compiled by the United Nations Department for Disarmament Affairs.

Explanatory Note -- reservations

For the purposes of this document, reservations are divided into three categories: "explicit", "implicit" and "withdrawn".

Explicit reservations are those that have been made explicitly by the state concerned and are recorded in the list above. Most take the form of (1) limiting the remit of the protocol as only binding in relation to states that have become party to it and (2) reserving a right to use the methods of warfare prohibited by the protocol if the state is subject to an attack by such methods. The first of these may be interpreted as superfluous as the protocol itself stipulates that the contracting parties agree to be bound "as between themselves" or this may be interpreted as those states putting down such a reservation believe the protocol to prohibit all uses of the methods of warfare covered therein. States with remaining explicit reservations include: Algeria, Angola, Bahrain, Bangladesh, China, Fiji, India, Iraq, Israel, Jordan, DPRK, Kuwait, Libya, Nigeria, Papua New Guinea, Republic of Korea, Syria, Thailand, USA, Viet Nam and Yugoslavia (Serbia and Montenegro).

Implicit reservations are those that derive from succession of states in circumstances where the predecessor state had a reservation at the time of independence. Some states with implicit reservations may have inherited them without realising the significance of them. Article 20.1 of the 1978 Vienna Convention on the Succession of States in Respect of Treaties is clear about reservations: "When a newly independent State establishes its status as a party or as a contracting State to a multilateral treaty by a notification of succession ... it shall be considered as maintaining any reservation to that treaty which was applicable at the date of the succession of States in respect of the territory to which the succession of States relates unless, when making the notification of succession, it expresses a contrary intention or formulates a reservation which relates to the same subject-matter as that reservation." This convention codifies what had been the established legal doctrine. Therefore, any state which (i) made a declaration of succession (in whatever form) from a predecessor state which had a reservation in force at the time; and (ii) neither made any mention of the reservation in that declaration nor disassociated itself from the reservation at a later date may be said to have implicitly accepted the reservation.

Any state which decided to accede to the protocol rather than be considered a successor state would not be affected by any reservation made by the predecessor state.

States with remaining implicit reservations include: Cyprus, Gambia, Grenada, Indonesia, Jamaica, Lesotho, the Maldives, Malta, Mauritius, Niger, Pakistan, Rwanda, St Kitts & Nevis, St Lucia, St Vincent & the Grenadines, Solomon Islands, Tonga and Trinidad and Tobago.

Withdrawn reservations are those that have been explicitly withdrawn by the state in question.

States known to have withdrawn their reservations include: Australia, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia (as was), Estonia, France, Ireland, Mongolia, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Portugal, Romania, Russia, South Africa, Spain and the UK.
