

Centre for World Environmental History

Autumn Term Seminar Series

Russell Building RB 9 on Thursday 22nd October

&

Room A 155 on November 13th and December 4th

All Seminar Timings 1300 - 1500

Followed by drinks in the IDS bar

All welcome

October 22 Professor Brian Morris, Goldsmiths

Animals and Ancestors

With a breadth of research interests covering the anthropology of religion to the relationship between human societies and insects, Brian Morris will be discussing his most recent work on the relationship between people and animals in Malawi

November 13 Tristram Stuart

The Evolution of the Food Surplus

Well known author Tristram Stuart, fresh from the success of his history of vegetarianism The Bloodless Revolution will be speaking about his most recent work Waste: Uncovering the Global Food Scandal

December 4 Catherine Corson, University of California Berkeley/University of Sussex

The History and Politics of Forest Policy and Conservation in Madagascar

Visiting Fellow Catherine Corson will be discussing her research on the history and practises of environmental policy processes in Madagascar. Her work explores the linkages between the Malagasy Government, USAID and the broader governmental and non-governmental components of forest protection in Madagascar.

For more information please contact
Lowell Woodcock dimflint@yahoo.co.uk