

Research Interests

Richard Gartner

I am a lecturer in Library and Information Science in the Centre for e-Research, Department of Digital Humanities at King's College London, where my research specialises in metadata for digital libraries: I am particularly interested in the use of XML for digital library metadata, constructing integrated metadata environments and the role of digital libraries in international development. Much of my work concentrates on architectures for complex digital collections and the way in which they can be constructed to facilitate federated searching and browsing.
