

CAREERS

Sussex International Relations graduates work around the world in a wide range of organisations. Here's what some of our former students are doing now

- Project coordinator, Social & Ecological Management, Senegal
- Researcher in Ecorys - economic, social & spatial development
- Programmes administrator - International Rescue Committee
- Operational delivery coordinator - St Johns Ambulance
- Microsoft - sales planner
- Responsible Jewellery Council - coordinator
- Journalist
- Consultant – Price Waterhouse Cooper
- Danish Demining Group (DDG) Somaliland: Humanitarian Mine Action and Armed Violence Reduction Unit
- Politics teacher
- IProBono - Executive Director of a non-profit online network connecting civil society organisations and social businesses in need of legal assistance
- Lafferty Finance - Deputy Head of Research
- Team member - Sussex Innovation Centre business incubation services
- Head of Development, Fulham Football Club Foundation
- UNICEF - project coordinator, Mozambique
- VCCP creative agency - account executive
- Public Affairs Consultant, EU Consultancy, Brussels
- Lead Organiser, New Economy Organisers Network, NEF