

University of Sussex

Sussex Centre for Language Studies

What is Argumentation?

What is Argumentation? Essentially, it's a claim made in a discursive essay that's in the form of a thesis statement. A thesis statement is one or two sentences that come at the end of your introduction. This claim needs to be well-supported with academic sources.