

The EYE project

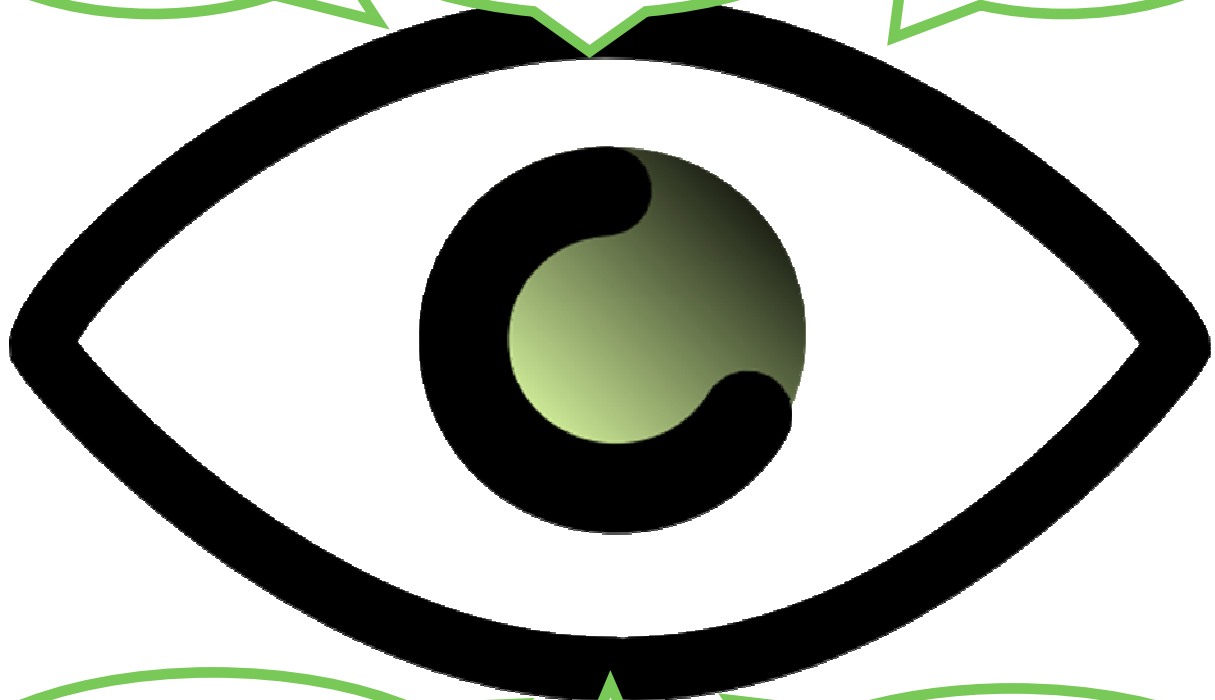

Early Youth Engagement in first episode psychosis services

Research studies have shown that using early intervention in psychosis services gives young people the best chance of recovery from psychosis and reduces the risk of relapse and suicide BUT at least a quarter of all young people who are referred to early intervention services drop out and don't use everything that's on offer from these services. We want to make these services better so that young people get the most out of services and their recovery.

New start

Be part of the solution

Take a lead

Change the future

Make your view count

See the information enclosed or call Kathy Greenwood (EYE project lead) 07900 961 587

The EYE project

Early Youth Engagement in first episode psychosis services