

What do students say about Study direct?

For the past five years (2009-2012), undergraduate students in their first year have been asked what they think about Study direct as part of a wider survey of their experience of systems at Sussex. As the chart below shows, the ratings have been consistently high (n = number of respondents).

