BACKGROUND

YFS has become Europe's premier forum for finance PhD students, post-doctoral researchers and other early career researchers. It provides the opportunity for young scholars to present their research, discuss and debate the models and methodologies that they employ, receive comments on their work and career advice from leading researchers (including editors of some key journals in the field), and network with their peers and industry experts.

WHY COLLABORATE WITH YFS 2019?

The 6th YFS 2019 builds on the success of previous conferences held at the University of Sussex since 2014. The FinTech theme of this year's conference represents a rare occasion to get to know the emerging scholars in the analysis of financial transformations and to explore the upcoming trends in financial technology. Sponsorship will give access to a selection of young talent and ideas and will build a bridge with leading thinkers in the field of FinTech.

CONFERENCE THEME: FINTECH

Changes happen very quickly in this digital age. Since the innovation and almost-immediate trading of new financial products has evolved much faster than regulations, we need research into assessing and managing new types of risk and enforcing compliance with regulations, when imposed.

The young finance scholars submitting their work to this conference will present some of the latest thinking on FinTech, allowing participants to gain insight into its potential to revolutionise developments in all types of financial markets, and for the institutions that operate within them.

SPONSORSHIP OPTIONS

- All sponsors have options for logo branding and advertising materials.
- Silver and Gold sponsors may host practitioner round tables or networking meetings.
- Silver and Gold sponsors have two complementary places at the conference dinner.
- Gold sponsors have naming rights for the conference dinner and closing awards reception.

CONTINUING PARTNERSHIP

It is hoped that there will be an enduring and lasting partnership between the University of Sussex Business School and our sponsors. We hope that the partnerships established for 2019 will continue beyond the YFS conference and open up the possibility of future collaborations, such as student placements and faculty research.
