Lecturer in Sociology,

This session is an informal and encouraging space to write alongside each other as colleagues. This retreat will comprise of chunks of individual writing time and discussions of the frustrations and pleasures of writing in and about higher education. No-one will be expected to read aloud anything they have written. The opportunity is simply to share - if wanted - how well we feel we are progressing in our chosen tasks, whatever they may be. Attendance can be for all or part of the day.
