Overview

The Centre for International Education (CIE) is a constitutive part of a cross university focus in Development Studies at Sussex that has been ranked no. 1 in Europe in the QS World University Rankings (www.topuniversities.com). Established in 1989, CIE is also one of only nine University Research Centres in Sussex. Its members include an interdisciplinary research group based in the Education Department in Sussex with many others drawn from across the university as well as from a wider global network of associates and friends.

CIE’s central focus is on education and development within the Global South and its diaspora. Our aim is to contribute to international and national debates about policy, practice and global relations through research, teaching and publications. Our work is driven by a philosophy that improved educational opportunities have important implications for social justice and equality, social and civic participation, improved wellbeing, health and economic growth. CIE is a centre of excellence, it is recognised as a leading centre in the field of international education and development with many of our members contributing to key global debates.

Members of CIE produce internationally renowned research through a wide range of approaches and a variety of methodologies. They have engaged in research and consultancy for research councils, international NGOs, national governments, philanthropic organisations, development agencies and donors. These include the ESRC, the EU, the British Council, DFID, UNESCO, UNICEF, the World Bank, the Rockefeller Foundation, Concern Worldwide, Geneva Global, OXFAM, SIDA, the William and Flora Hewlett Foundation and the Open Society Foundations among others.

We encourage institutions, potential research partners and students to contact CIE for more information about our work.

Our substantial research experience is used to inform our teaching at doctoral, masters and undergraduate levels. More than 150 CIE doctoral researchers have graduated from the PhD in Education and the International Doctor of Education (EdD) and over 400 students have completed the MA in International Education and Development (MAIED). In 2014/15, CIE developed a suite of modules for first and second year undergraduates from across the university that may be undertaken as individual electives or as part of the new International Education and Development pathway. The first year modules are, ‘Education for Development: Aid, policy and the global agenda’ and ‘Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Teaching, Learning & Assessment’. The second year modules ‘Access, Equity & Gender’ and ‘Peacebuilding and Conflict’ will be available in 2016/17. In addition a second year option in International Education and Development for students in Global studies was successfully launched in 2015/16.

Our graduates come from a wide range of countries and many occupy key positions in the field of education and development at local, national and international levels. They provide us with an extensive and influential network of alumni and contacts across the globe.
Research Themes

Research in CIE addresses a wide range of issues related to education and international development in a global context. This encompasses all levels of education, including formal and informal systems of learning and development from pre-school to university to community learning across public, private and non-government organisations.

CIE applies its interdisciplinary, multiple methods approaches to researching five core themes relating to education

- Access and Equity
- Conflict and Peacebuilding
- Gender, Identities and Citizenship
- Governance, Planning and Finance
- Teachers and Quality

Access and Equity
The rationale of this research theme is to promote universal educational rights as central to development policy and practice. It explores access to all levels of education, issues of retention and exclusion in multiple contexts and highlights educational access as key for achieving greater wellbeing and poverty reduction.

Conflict and Peacebuilding
This research theme explores the complex relationship between education and violent conflict, the role that education systems play prior to the outbreak, during and in the immediate and long-term aftermath of conflict. Work in this area currently focuses on the role of education in building peace during and after armed conflict, with a particular focus on the role of teachers in peacebuilding and the role of education in post-conflict reconstruction.

Gender, Identities and Citizenship
The multiple links between education and society are the focus of this research theme. It includes explorations of the ways that national, ethnic and religious identity, socio-economic status, gender, location, lifestyle and migration intersect to produce different forms of citizenship and reciprocally impact on different kinds of educational provision, uptake and exclusion worldwide.

Governance, Planning and Finance
This theme focuses on the governance of education systems, policy analysis, finance within the national and global context, and the impacts of decentralization, and other macro education reforms on educational growth and equity. It also addresses issues related to asymmetries in donor-recipient relationships, and global approaches to external assistance in diverse contexts.

Teachers and Quality
Research in this theme addresses a range of issues, including the construction and delivery of the curriculum, pedagogy, teacher training and continuing professional development, and the quality and outcomes of the learning experience for pupils.

Research Highlights

The Geneva Global funded research project on Speed Schools in Ethiopia has been making excellent progress. This mixed methods study led by Professor Kwame Akyeampong includes Professor John Pryor, Dr Jo Westbrook and Dr Sara Humphreys from CIE who have been conducting field research with research partners from the Hawassa University, Ethiopia. There are several elements to this research, one focuses on the Speed School Pedagogy, another explores the involvement of Speed School pupils’ mothers’ in a micro-credit facility under a scheme known as mothers’ Self-Help Groups (SHG). The quantitative research has involved Professor Akyeampong in observing a tracking survey of about 1875 pupils representing the original cohort of pupils included in the research from 2011. The research team also includes Dr Ricardo Sabates from Cambridge University, Dr Caine Rolleston and Zoe James of the Institute of Education, UCL and Dr Marcos Delprato, formerly of the Global Monitoring Report (GMR), UNESCO, Paris who were brought together on 20 May 2016 for a one-day workshop on the survey instruments and quantitative data collection. Professor Akyeampong has also organised a data analysis workshop for the research partners. Initial research reports from the qualitative data are expected towards the end of 2016.

Professor Mario Novelli, Dr Naureen Durrani, Professor Yusuf Sayed and Dr Laila Kadiwal, along with partners in South Africa and Pakistan, successfully completed the research outputs for the Sussex component of the Research Consortium on Education and Peacebuilding. The partnership co-directed by the University of Amsterdam, the University of Ulster and the University of Sussex was funded by UNICEF and involved research in South Africa, Pakistan, Uganda and Myanmar. All outputs are available at http://learningforpeace.unicef.org/partners/research-consortium/. Dissemination events were carried out throughout the first half of 2016 including major events in Washington, USA; Amsterdam, the Netherland, Colombo, Sri Lanka and Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Professor Keith Lewin has completed a programme of research with the Ministry of Human Resource Development in India working with three CIE alumni – Gaurav Siddhu, Shashiranjan Jha and Joana Härmä and many others in the RMSA-TCA team. Eight analytic research reports have been produced using large scale data sets, surveys across 8000 households, case studies in three States, and policy analysis and national networks of key informants. Fieldwork has taken place in Assam, Bihar and Odissa. Keith was invited by the Ministry to present the overviews of research findings in plenary at the opening and closing sessions at the India National Conference: Unlocking Potential: Addressing Challenges in Secondary Education. The conference was hosted by the All India Secretary for Education, Subesh Khuntia, and the Joint Secretary for Secondary Education, Maneesh Garg. The research has had substantial impact and has been very well received by DFID.
Dr Jo Westbrook engaged with the T-TEL team (Transforming Teacher Education & Learning), Government of Ghana to develop policy-relevant standards for preservice teacher education institutions. The new teaching standards completed in December were developed in collaboration with Professor Kankom (University of Education, Winneba), Professor Jophus Anamuah-Mensah and Augustine Tawiah (National Teaching Council).

Dr Linda Morrice with Sussex co-researchers (Tip, L., Collyer, M. and Brown, R) were invited to present findings from their ESRC funded mixed methods, longitudinal study of refugees in the UK at International Conference on Refugees, Security and Sustainable Development in the Middle East: The Need for North South Dialogue. 15-16 March 2016. Amman, Jordan

Professor Keith Lewin launched his latest book ‘Educational access, equity, and development: Planning to make rights realities’ - which highlights the CREATE research programme funded by DFID - at the UKFIET Oxford conference in October 2015 with Paul Coustere, Deputy Director, UNESCO International Institute for Educational Planning (IIEP) and at the National University of Educational Planning and Administration (NUPEA) in Delhi, a long term partner of the CIE hosted by Professor N V Varghese, Director of the Centre for Higher Education. The Sussex book launch took place on October at the Institute of Development Studies.

CIE faculty and associates have sustained and initiated research links with several other Sussex academic departments (IDS, International Relations, Anthropology, Development Studies, Gender Studies, Geography, Psychology and Media Studies) other universities internationally (University of Ghana, University of Education Winneba, University of Cape Coast in Ghana; Hawaasa University, Ethiopia; Cape Peninsular University and North West University, South Africa; Universidad del Pacifico, Peru; Agha Khan University, Pakistan; Delhi University, TISS in India; Beijing Normal University, China; Kyambogo University, Uganda; Cambridge, Leeds, UCL, Ulster, Amsterdam, Autonomous University Barcelona in Europe) and multiple non-academic organisations (British Academy, DFID, UNICEF, UNESCO, IIEP, Asia Development Bank, World Bank, USAID, Ministries of Education [Ghana, India], Global Development Network, SightSavers, Geneva Global).

Over this academic year CIE faculty and associates have produced and published more than 45 publications and given over 30 conference presentations. They collectively supervise 43 doctoral candidates and in this academic year a further fourteen candidates, both the PhD and International EdD, successfully completed and were awarded their doctorates. These new doctors are working in nine different countries and work in a range of education related organisations from national ministries to international non-government organisations.

Keynote Addresses and Conferences

Professor Mario Novelli gave the keynote presentation entitled ‘Education and Armed Conflict in Africa: Beyond negative peace and peace’ at the 2015 Annual Arnhold Symposium on Education for Sustainable Peace that took place in October 2015 in New York. This symposium was co-organized by The Georg Eckert Institute for International Textbook Research, the German Centre for Research and Innovation and The New School for Social Research which focuses on Education and Armed Conflict in Sub-Saharan Africa and brought together critical scholars from a broad spectrum of disciplines working on the complex relationship between education and armed conflict in sub-Saharan Africa.

Professor Keith Lewin was the guest speaker at the Final Conference of the School Drop Out Prevention Project, USAID, Washington DC, September 2015.

Professor Keith Lewin spoke on Issues for Higher Education arising from the Sustainable Development Goals at the Conference of University Presidents from Brazil, Russia, India, China and South Africa (BRICS) at Beijing Normal University in October 2015 at which the League of BRICS Universities was launched by Vice Chancellors and Deputy Vice Chancellors from key universities in BRICS countries.

Professor Máiréad Dunne gave a keynote presentation entitled Youth as Researchers: Issues for research to the Youth at the Margins Conference and Book Launch, Department of Multicultural and International Education, Oslo and Akershus University College. University of Oslo, 19 January 2016.

Professor Keith Lewin participated in a keynote panel with Dr Jordan Naidoo (Education Lead – UNESCO) debating whether secondary education in India can be universalised to an invited audience at IIEP, Paris in March 2016.

Professor Máiréad Dunne gave an invited seminar entitled Education & equality: Can we count on it? to the Department of Social Sciences, Universidade del Pacifico, Lima, Peru. 15 March 2016

Professor Kwame Akyeampong gave the keynote entitled Relevant Mathematics and Science Education in the Transformative Shift of Africa at the Regional Conference of Mathematics and Science Education in Africa, held in Nairobi, Kenya from 15-17th March 2016.

Professor Máiréad Dunne gave a Keynote Panel Presentation on Research and Policy: implications for capacity development at the Global Development Network Annual Conference on Education for Development: Quality & inclusion for changing global human capital needs. 18th March 2016, Lima, Peru

Dr Naureen Durrani gave a keynote presentation, ‘Teacher agency for social cohesion in Pakistan’ at the 4th International Conference on Education in Pakistan: Connecting Research and Practice across Context', 24th – 26th March 2016 at the University of Education, Lahore.

Professor Yusuf Sayed presented preliminary findings from the Teachers and Peacebuilding research programme in conflict affected countries at The World Bank Group Fragility, Conflict and Violence Forum 2016 in Washington DC in March 2016. Over 100 organisations and 600 participants gathered over three days to focus on the challenge of pushing forward the sustainable development agenda in a world affected by fragility conflict and violence.

Professor Máiréad Dunne gave an invited presentation entitled Categorical denial: the work of education in social class reproduction to the Department of Social Sciences, Autonomous University of Barcelona, Spain on 22 April 2016

Professor Mario Novelli, gave a keynote speech entitled “The Consortium’s Contribution to Education and Peacebuilding: The 4 Rs Framework, Research Approach & Framing” at the Forum on 'The Role of Education in Peacebuilding - Foundations, Findings and Futures', Singelkerk, Amsterdam. 20th - 22nd April 2016. At the same forum Dr Naureen Durrani, presented on ‘The Role of Teachers in Peacebuilding” and was part of a panel session on the country studies in which she provided insights from the Pakistan study. Dr Laila Kadiwal also presented on “The Role of Youth in Peacebuilding in Pakistan”. Professor Novelli wrapped the two-day event with a keynote speech on the ‘Implications and recommendations for donors, governments, policy makers and practitioners’ http://learningforpeace.unicef.org/research/research-consortium-on-education-and-peacebuilding-seminar-foundations-findings-and-futures/

Professor Mario Novelli, gave a keynote lecture on ‘Education & Countering Violent Extremism: Western Logics from South to North’, at 2nd International Symposium on Teaching about Extremism, Terror, and Trauma April 14-16, 2016, Department of Education Concordia University, Montreal
Professor Máiréad Dunne and Dr Elizabeth Charles presented a roundtable discussion paper on Research and Policy Development to the Higher Education in the Future Summit at the Open University of Catalonia, UOC Barcelona, 21 April 2016.

Professor Mario Novelli gave the keynote presentation on “The Role of Education in Peacebuilding: Opportunities, Obstacles & Openings”, at the South Asia Regional Symposium On Sustainable Peace and Education, Regional Office for South Asia (ROSA) UNICEF, 27 May 2016, Sri Lanka.

Professor Mario Novelli gave a keynote presentation on “Equity, Inequality and Education in Conflict Contexts”, at the Pan-African Symposium on Education, Resilience and Social Cohesion— Strengthening Education Policies and Programmes to Achieve SDGs & Africa’s Agenda, 1-3 June 2016, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

CIE was also represented at a number of international conferences:

- The Centre for International Education had a strong presence at the UKFET Conference held on 15-17 September at Oxford University. The conference includes academic and non-academic audience representing development agencies, NGOs and government departments.

  Two symposia led by CIE members included:

  Contextualising Education and the Production of Citizen Identities in which Máiréad Dunne, Barbara Crossouard and Naureen Durrani presented four papers that explored youth identity constructions in the diverse geopolitical contexts of Lebanon, Nigeria, Pakistan and Senegal.

  Building Sustainable Peace and Stability through Education: UNICEF Evidence Building in which Naureen Durrani, Laila Kadiwal, Sean Higgins and M. A. Lopez Cardozo (University of Amsterdam) presented selected outcomes from their UNICEF funded project on peace-building. This included ‘Methodological framework: the role of education for youth agency in relation to building sustainable peaceful futures in Pakistan/Myanmar’ by Dr Naureen Durrani and Dr Laila Kadiwal.

  Other CIE presentations included:

  Intergenerational Education Effects of Early Marriage in Sub-Saharan Africa by Marco Delprato (UNESCO/ CIE), Máiréad Dunne and Kwame Akyeampong.

  Learning for Sustainable Futures – Making the Connections by Dr Naureen Durrani and Dr Laila Kadiwal.

  Keith Lewin was also joined by Paul Coustere, Deputy Director of the International Institute of Educational Planning (IIEP) in the launch of his new book, entitled Educational Access, Equity and Development: Planning to Make Rights Realities.

  Many other CIE alumni and associates gave presentations on their research – these included Lizzie Maber, (University of Amsterdam), Stuart Cameron (Oxford Policy Management), Rosie Lugg (Cambridge Education), and Paul Fean (Norwegian Refugee Council).

Paper presentations included:

The Role of teachers in Peacebuilding and Social Cohesion: Synthesis of Four Country Case-Studies: Pakistan, Myanmar, Uganda and South Africa by Professors Yusuf Sayed and Mario Novelli

Engaging teachers in peacebuilding in conflict affected contexts: insights from Pakistan by Dr Naureen Durrani and Prof. Anjum Halai, (Aga Khan University, Pakistan)

Shifting Youth Identities? Nation building and education in Pakistan by Dr Laila Kadiwal and Dr Naureen Durrani

Educational Governance, Equity, and Sustainable Peacebuilding in Kenya and South Sudan by Professor Novelli

Professor Keith Lewin organised a panel session on Expanding secondary schooling in collaboration with Jordan Naidoo, (UNESCO), Albert Motivans (UNESCO Institute of Statistics), Ian MacPherson (Global Partnership for Education (GPE) and Eva Oberg (DFID Education Advisor). He also contributed to a panel organised by the International Bureau of Education (IBE - UNESCO) alongside Aaron Benavot, (Director GEMR), Joshua Muskin (Brookings Institute) and Stephen Heyneman (Editor IJED) and a third panel was organised by the Global Partnership for Education and chaired by Karen Mundy (Chief Technical Advisor) with Ian Macpherson and Raphaëlle Martinez (Global Partnership for Education).

CIE members and partners attended and presented at Third International Sociology Association Forum on Sociology, Vienna, 10-14 July. Their presentations in the Sociology of Youth thematic group on Muslim Youth, Contemporary Challenges and Future Prospects included:

Fracturing the nation: Muslim youth accounts of belonging in Nigeria, Pakistan, and Senegal’, by Professor Máiréad Dunne, Dr Barbara Crossouard and Dr Naureen Durrani, Gender and Youth Citizenship in Contexts of Postcoloniality: The Marginalisation of Muslim Youth in Ghana by Barbara Crossouard, Eric Ananga, Christine Adu-Yeboah, Vincent Adzahlie-Mensah, and Máiréad Dunne.

CIE members also attended the Research Committees meetings of the themes, Sociology of Youth, Women in Society and the Sociology of Development.

Knowledge Exchange and Public Engagement

An academic research partnership between the University of Sussex and the University of Ghana was initiated in 2015 to create a unique space for new and established education researchers to meet regularly to disseminate research that addresses and develops a critical discourse on education for development in Africa. Following the successful first conference in May 2015, a second ICERDA conference will take place in Accra from the 3rd-5th October 2016 on the theme “Towards a Vision of Education for Sustainable Development in Africa”. Kwame Akyeampong is the chair of ICERDA organizing committee and is working in close collaboration with colleagues from the College of Education, University of Ghana, Legon. The conference will provide a forum for delegates from across Africa to reflect on the experiences and outcomes of education for development in Africa since 2000 and provide an African arena to review the past, appraise the present and plan the future of education.

The CIE led component of the Research Consortium on Education and Peacebuilding, between the Universities of Sussex, Amsterdam and Ulster, completed full country reports for both Pakistan and South Africa on Social Cohesion, Education and Conflict. These reports were developed through collaboration with major international partners. In Pakistan the Sussex team collaborated with UNICEF Country Office, Pakistan, and the Aga Khan University’s Institute for Educational Development Pakistan (AKU-IED). In South Africa the collaboration was between the Centre for International Teacher Education (CITE) based at the Cape Peninsula University of Technology in Cape Town, South Africa and the UNICEF country office.

The synthesis reports on the role of Teachers in Peacebuilding in Pakistan, South Africa, Myanmar and Uganda from the Research Consortium on Education and Peacebuilding project have been fully reviewed and accepted by UNICEF Country offices and the critical reference group. The reference group members are important vectors for knowledge exchange and it is comprised of academics, international agencies and policy makers. They include: Jordan Naidoo, UNESCO; Beatriz Avalos, Chile; Susan Robertson, University of Bristol; Poonam Bhatra, Delhi University; Professor Govinda, Ex-Vice Chancellor & Emeritus Professor, NUEPA, National University of Educational Planning and Administration, India; Professor Zubedi Desai, University of the Western Cape, S. Africa; Professor Shireen Motala, University of Johannesburg, S. Africa; Dr Sarfaroz Niyozov, IED AKU, Pakistan; Dr Sajid Ali, IED AKU; Dominic Richardson, Innocenti, UNICEF and Changu Mannathoko, UNICEF, New York.

A dedicated portal has been developed for online knowledge exchange about the Research Consortium on Education and Peacebuilding project on the UNICEF website http://learningforpeace.unicef.org/partners/research-consortium/. Currently, the database of the Research Consortium holds contact details for 782 key international and in country partners, representing the United Nations, INGOs, NGOs, Government, Community actors, and international academies.
Other project related knowledge exchange activities include report validation workshops conducted by Dr Naureen Durrani, in collaboration with Prof. Anjum Halai and Salima Rajput of Aga Khan University in November 2015. This was attended by stakeholders from civil society organisations, government institutions and international NGOs working with teachers. The workshops were held in Pakistan, at the Aga Khan University Campus, Karachi, the Provincial Institute for Teacher Education, Sindh, Nawabshah, the Hotel Marriot, Islamabad.

CIE faculty in the Gender, Identities and Citizenship research theme have developed collaborations with the Institute of Development Studies and Global Studies faculty. This has included participation and presentations in two jointly organised meetings:

Professor Mairéad Dunne, Dr Barbara Crossouard and Dr Naureen Durrani presented ‘The Work of Education: learning gendered futures’ at a conference Imagined Futures? Future Selves? focusing on youth in the global south at the Institute of Development Studies (IDS) University of Sussex, 9 December 2015

Professor Mairéad Dunne presented Young people and employment – the work of education to audience of academics, funding bodies, international agencies and INGOs at the IDS 50th Anniversary Conference on 5 July 2016

As a result of this collaboration Dr Barbara Crossouard and Professor Mairéad Dunne have been engaged in the development of bids focused on youth, education, citizenship and work. This has led to the award of a 3 year project funded by IFAD and focussed on Rural Youth Employment in Sub-Saharan Africa.

Other Knowledge Exchange and Public Engagement activities include:

Professor Mario Novelli and Gabrielle Daoust, University of Sussex, presented findings from their UNICEF research on Education Governance, Inequality and Conflict in South Sudan in Juba, South Sudan. August 2015,

Professor Mairéad Dunne was an invited participant to the British Academy International Forum - Early Childhood Development, British Academy, London 19 October 2015

Professor Mario Novelli contributed to a Panel Discussion: Does Education Inequality lead to Violent Conflict, UNICEF, New York, 29 October 2015.

Professor Mairéad Dunne was an Invited Reviewer of ‘Analyzing (non-)formal education for youth agency in relation to peace building’ research report for the UNICEF Research Consortium on Education and Peacebuilding. February 2016.

Professor Keith Lewin was invited to a Keynote debate at the International Institute of Educational Planning (IIEP), Paris in March 2016 on whether secondary education in India can be universalised. Keith drew on the recently completed research reports arising from the RMSA-TCA and debated with Dr Jordan Naidoo (Education Lead – UNESCO) and an invited audience of planners and policy makers.

Professor Mairéad Dunne was an invited participant on the International Roundtable at the UOC Higher Education in the Future Summit. Open University of Catalonia, Barcelona. 20-22 April 2016, funded by Banco Iberico
Professor Keith Lewin was invited by the Ministry of Education, Indonesia and the Asian Development Bank to present a plenary paper on Teachers and Teacher for the Analytic and Capacity Development Partnership (ACDP) and the Asian Development Bank. The paper and power-point were published by the ACDP.

Professor Keith Lewin was an invited participant to the two day retreat discussing “Thinking about Teachers, Teaching and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development” by the The Leadership for Learning group supported by the Open Society Foundation at their annual conference at the Møller Centre, Churchill College, University of Cambridge in April 2016.

Keith Lewin was an invited participant to the Royal Academy discussion in May 2016 of the International Finance Commission which will report to the United Nations in September.

CIE has also been engaged in on-line knowledge exchange activities on current issues with in the field:

Mario Novelli has two blogs related to work he is developing as ‘Scientific Advisor’ to the Network for International Policies and Cooperation in Education and Training (NORRAG) related to education and peacebuilding. They can be found at:

https://norrag.wordpress.com/2015/12/03/the-role-of-education-in-preventing-urban-violence-and-countering-violent-extremisms/

Dr Jo Westbrook, Professor John Pryor and Professor Kwame Akyeampong produced a report on the Speed School pedagogy for Geneva Global Inc. funders of the Speed School research project. Dr Louise Makau-Barasa, Senior Project Director of Geneva Global Inc. praised the quality of the report and said the management of Geneva Global had found the report very useful in reviewing the Speed School approach. The Speed School programme is a temporary catch-up program of national primary school curriculum focusing on Literacy and Numeracy skills of grade 1 to 3, involving innovative ways of curriculum delivery. It is intended for out of school children between ages of 9-14, who are educationally disadvantaged and dropped out of schools due to economic problems; loss of one or both parents, who never attended schools, girls, and older children. Further research by the CIE team on Speed Schools in Ethiopia is continuing.

Following publication of ‘Issues of Educational Access, Quality, Equity and Impact in Nigeria: The EDOREN review of literature on basic education’ in Nigeria in November 2015, the author Dr Sarah Humphreys received a letter of acknowledgement from the Permanent Secretary of the Nigerian President’s office conveying his appreciation and congratulations. The Permanent Secretary commended the review for providing “clear insights into the challenges being faced by the educational system in Northern Nigeria” adding that it “… will to a greater extent assist the government in its quest to revamp the system”.

The literature review was part of an operational research strand led by Professor Máiréad Dunne, as part of a DFID-funded initiative on Education Data, Research and Evaluation in Nigeria (EDOREN). The programme’s aim was to improve research, quality, knowledge production and data in Nigeria and through this to enhance educational policy, practice and outcomes. Dr Naureen Durrani was also part of the CIE team working on EDOREN. This project is part of a long association between CIE and educational leaders in Nigeria. In previous funded research, Professor Máiréad Dunne and Dr Sara Humphreys collaborated with Nigerian researchers, Dr Moses Dauda and Ms Jiddere Kaibo, in a literature review and empirical research that resulted in the Adamawa State Primary Education Research report which was commissioned and well-received by the Adamawa State Universal Basic Education Board in North-Eastern Nigeria.

Professor Keith Lewin is advisor/ critical friend to the research programme of Educational International (EI) which is the international confederation of teacher unions and the largest membership teacher organisation in the world. The EI Research Network met in May 2016 to determine its priorities for 2016 – 17. The Leadership for Learning group which is supported by the Open Society Foundation convened their annual conference at the Møller Centre, Churchill College, University of Cambridge in April 2016. Keith Lewin was an invited participant to the two day retreat discussing “Thinking about Teachers, Teaching and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”.

Jenny Hobbs Senior Education Adviser at the INGO Concern Worldwide has referred to a CIE led review completed by Fiona Leach, Máiréad Dunne and Eric Slade (CIE alumni and Research Associate and currently CORE international NGO)
In 2012, Concern commissioned the Centre for International Education at the University of Sussex to conduct a desk review of promising practice in SRGBV prevention and response programming globally. …. Based on the findings ... Concern designed the Safe Learning Model to prevent and respond to SRGBV within education programmes. The Safe Learning Model is a holistic approach to addressing SRGBV within an education programme.

The Safe Learning Model is now being implemented in schools in Liberia alongside a systematic monitoring and evaluation programme.
Seminars and Events

CIE makes a strong and significant contribution to the research culture and environment of the School of Education and Social Work by hosting regular seminars. Teaching

CIE provides high-quality, research-led teaching to students and practitioners from around the world in an international and multi-cultural environment. Graduates have gone on to careers in international organisations, national education ministries, educational institutions, NGOs and universities. We also run bespoke training courses for students and practising professionals in international education and development.

Courses

Teaching associated with CIE includes:

- International Education and Development Undergraduate Pathway and Electives
- MA in International Education and Development
- PhD in Education

CIE provides high-quality, research-led teaching to students and practitioners from around the world in an international and multi-cultural environment. Graduates have gone on to careers in international organisations, national education ministries, educational institutions, NGOs and universities. We also run bespoke training courses for students and practising professionals in international education and development.

Teaching associated with CIE includes:

- International Education and Development Undergraduate Pathway

This pathway is open to single honours undergraduates in disciplines across the university. It comprises a series of four modules, two taken in each of the first two years of a degree course. This pathway focuses on the educational issues faced by governments and people in the Global South as well as the effects of education on the social and economic development of the individual, their families and society.

The first year modules are:
- ‘Education for Development: Aid, policy and the global agenda’
- ‘Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Teaching, Learning & Assessment’.

The second year modules are:
- ‘Access, Equity & Gender’
- ‘Peacebuilding and Conflict’

In addition CIE faculty successfully launched a stand-alone second year undergraduate option in ‘International Education and Development’ for students in Global studies.
• MA in International Education and Development

A one-year (or two-year part-time) course with core modules on theories and policy issues in international education and development, as well as optional modules. The course also involves research methods training and a dissertation. In 2016-17 we intend to offer 4 specialisms:

- Teachers, Policy and Practice
- Curriculum, Learning and Society
- Educational Policy, Planning and Management
- Education, Conflict and Peacebuilding

• PhD in Education

The PhD in Education can be studied full- or part-time. This includes research training within a vibrant research environment with a range of seminars, reading groups, student research in progress presentations, peer discussion groups and informal meetings with faculty in CIE, ESW and the wider university. You will have access to the extensive collections in the Sussex Library and Institute of Development Studies (IDS) Library and to a wide range of electronic resources.

CIE faculty often co-supervise students from Anthropology, Development Studies, Gender Studies Sociology and International Relations.

In the first year you will focus on the development of your research proposal and the data collection instruments. You are required to present this to an academic audience and complete a research ethics application before engaging in fieldwork in a relevant context. In the final phase you will return to Sussex UK to complete your doctoral thesis.
Awards/Appointments

Alice Aldinucci was awarded the CIE prize for the Best Overall performance and Sefut Shan was awarded the Luke Akaguri Prize for the Best Dissertation from the MAIED 14-15 cohort.

The Chancellor’s International Research Scholarships for PhD study in CIE has been awarded to Anna Wharton whose research is entitles ‘Syrian refugee children and the relationship between education and community development’ supervised by Drs Linda Morrice and Jo Westbrook, starting in September 2016.

Dr Naureen Durrani has deservedly been promoted to Senior Lecturer.

Dr Linda Morrice has taken up the post of Director of Doctoral Studies for the School of Education and Social Work.

Professor Yusuf Sayed has been awarded a Chair at the University of Sussex

Professor Keith Lewin has been appointed to the organising committee of World Conference of Comparative Education Societies in Beijing in August, 2016. He is convening a theme on equity and efficiency and over 2000 delegates are expected.

Professor Mario Novelli has been appointed as Scientific Advisor for the Network for International Policies and Cooperation in Education and Training (NORRAG)

Professor Máiréad Dunne has been appointed to the Scientific Committee of the Global Development Network (www.gdn.int)
Future Developments

The following are key elements of CIE’s future strategy for 2016/17, which will be further developed as the academic year unfolds.

Research Activity

CIE has sustained its success in funded research. The research funding sources are diverse and include influential and strategic international agencies, DFID, UNICEF, INGOs and philanthropic and charitable organizations. Given the changing external funding landscape and internal workload configurations there is a need to be much more selective about research opportunities. There are evident strategic benefits from large scale and extended research engagements which will be a focus of research bidding developments in the coming year. However, CIE also has interests in more local level, smaller scale research strongly associated with our key research themes and through which impacts may be more easily and quickly produced.

The current active research has been concentrated within our research themes, Access and Equity; Teachers and Quality and Conflict and Peacebuilding. Following a period concentrating on research writing and outputs, other factors permitting, over the next year a large scale research project in the Gender, Identities and Citizenship theme will be systematically developed. Emergent opportunities and commissioned research working with research users, the policy community and practitioners will always be considered on a case by case basis and subject to capacity.

Research Culture

We have enjoyed a very vibrant research environment in CIE in 2015/16 and we will sustain our commitment to generating spaces for debate and discussion in the 2015/16. With cross-university collaboration we supported over 50 seminars and events in the last academic year which were highly commended by students as a vital part of the intellectual milieu in CIE. These included weekly CIE Research Cafes, regular CIE sponsored ESW seminars, CIE led lectures as part of the Sussex Development Lectures, Doctoral Roundtables, 2 themed workshops (Education and Peacebuilding; Turkey, the Kurds and Human Rights) and a CIE led Critical Theory and Critical Engagement Reading Group. We will continue with these types of events in the coming year. These events are open to students across the department, School and university.

Cross University and Inter-University Networks

CIE has strengthened its links with academics and centres across the University of Sussex. These include Global Studies, IDS, SPRU, the Sussex Africa Centre, the Sussex Asia Centre, Gender Studies, Migration Studies, the Sussex Centre for Conflict and Security Research (SCCSR), the Centre for Cultures of Reproduction, Technologies and Health (CORTH), and the Middle East & North Africa (MENACS).CIE will again collaborate with Global Studies, IDS and SPRU in the Sussex Development Lectures in 2016/17. In addition we will continue to extend our reach by co-hosting research events with other Research centres across the campus. These links will also be deepened by ongoing developments in undergraduate teaching described in a section below as well as in collaborative research.
We will continue in 2016/17 to develop our international links with key strategic partners. In 2015/16 we developed a partnership with the College of Education, University of Ghana, Legon, Ghana. This will be further strengthened this academic year with a Pan-African Conference to be held in Ghana in September 2016 and the development of a pan-African network for research on International Education and Development, led by Professor Kwame Akyeampong. We will also seek to strengthen our links with Universities in South Africa, including Rhodes University, Grahamstown and the Cape Peninsular University of Technology (CPUT) Cape Town.

Communications and Impact

CIE web-site and presence has been widely positively acclaimed but the next phase of development will include an upgrading such that it is more dynamic, interactive and outward facing platform for CIE Research. This will require the development and operationalization of a communications plan and impact strategy that is subscribed to by all CIE members. The focus of the impact strategy will be related both to new activity and to the history of CIE research and impact spanning the reference period defined in the next Research Excellence Framework (REF). This is anticipated to include research and impact back to 2000 and in specific cases perhaps earlier.

Impact and communications have been part of our annual CIE Planning Awayday since 2014. In the forthcoming CIE away day in September 2016, we have invited Dr Laila Kadiwal to lead a CIE tailored session on increasing and documenting our impact. We also intend to set up a CIE blog page to promote and extend our engagement on contemporary issues and challenges in the area of education and international development.

Teaching

Teaching has a highly significant and reciprocal relationship with CIE’s research and global impact. Our focus on undergraduate modules in 2015/16 has resulted in four undergraduate (UG) electives in an International Education and Development (IED) pathway open to students across the university and an IED option for second year students from Global Studies. In the coming academic year all of these modules will be running. This will be important to the establishment and consolidation of the UG IED offer and for their attractiveness to students and other university departments in future years. We need this year to reflect on the success of these and consider how we might further develop and integrate our suite of International Education and Development modules into broader degree courses.

The MAIED is a flagship programme in CIE and we have proposed the development of 4 specialisms that will come on stream in 2016/17. Our focus for the coming year will include a closer engagement with target marketing; a communications strategy to improve applications and more systematic communications with applicants under offer to convert these into registrations. The Sussex experience for international students will require sustained efforts within the school environment and more widely with a range of social activities on and off campus.
The Centre for International Education is located within the Department of Education in Essex House on the University of Sussex campus. The University is situated on a modern campus on the edge of the South Downs National Park near the lively seaside city of Brighton. London is one hour away by train, and there is easy access to Gatwick and Heathrow airports.
