Development of a new Training and Assessment Package to Support the Wellbeing of Looked-after Children (STrAWB)

The Shared Training and Assessment of Wellbeing (STrAWB) package arose from an inter-disciplinary collaboration between colleagues at the Universities of Oxford (Nikki Luke, Valerie Dunn) and Sussex (Robin Banerjee, Helen Drew).

This innovative approach for primary-aged children in care brings together key adults from the child’s home and school contexts to identify their strengths and support needs.

Central to the STrAWB approach is the early identification of difficulties with emotions and social relationships that might escalate into more serious issues, and the triangulation of information from foster carers, teachers and children.

In this seminar, Nikki will present findings from a small pilot study, and outline how STrAWB is being taking forward with a new feasibility trial.

The event will be hosted by Michelle Lefevre and Robin Banerjee. Nikki will present for 30 minutes and this part of the seminar will be recorded. There will then be time for questions and discussion.

WE LOOK FORWARD TO SEEING YOU THERE!
