

CROATIA DURING THE CORONA CRISIS

FRIEDRICH
EBERT
STIFTUNG

TUESDAY, 8 FEBRUARY 2022, FROM 12:30 TO 14:00 PM
VIA ZOOM

The corona crisis has changed our daily lives, introduced new rules such as wearing masks, and new behaviors such as avoiding gatherings and keeping a physical distance from others. The pandemic has also encouraged us to think more about the relationship of personal freedoms and responsibilities to others, about the management of, and the trust we have or do not have, in the institutions of the system, as well as the kind of society we want in the future.

Therefore, the ReSPoC interdisciplinary team, which brings together social scientists, explored various aspects of the impact of the corona crisis on Croatian society. They looked at the impact that facing the pandemic has had on us as individuals and communities, our mental health and our trust in other people, institutions and society.

Have we, then, and how, as individuals and communities, adapted to the epidemic-related changes almost two years since they began? You can listen to and discuss the results of the research and the recommendations of the researchers at this online event. Welcome!

12:30	WELCOME SPEECH FROM THE ORGANISER Sonja Schirmbeck PhD, director, Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung
12:35	Presentation of the study results: Professor Dinka Čorkalo Biruški , Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences, University of Zagreb
12:55	Discussion: audience thoughts about the results
13:05	Commentators: Professor John Drury , University of Sussex, Great Britain Professor Dario Spini , University of Lausanne, Switzerland Sarah Eitze , University of Erfurt / COSMO Covid-Monitoring project
13:35	Discussion
14:00	Closing remarks and end of the event Moderator: Ivana Dragičević , journalist

Working languages: Croatian and English, with simultaneous translation.

Please register your participation by 7 February 2022 at praktikant@fes.hr