

Cubic Curves

James Hirschfeld

jwph@sussex.ac.uk

University of Sussex

<http://www.maths.sussex.ac.uk/Staff/JWPH>

Description

A cubic curve in the plane may have a singular point or be non-singular.

The non-singular points on a cubic form an abelian group, whatever the ground field  $K$ . This is connected to Cryptography.

If  $K = \mathbf{F}_q$ , how many points can a cubic curve have?