

Methods in Research & Practice

CORTH Doctoral Forum

Wednesday 10 October, 1:00-4:30pm
Fulton 214

All doctoral researchers are invited to join us for a forum on methods in research and practice, where we will explore the opportunities and challenges of qualitative and quantitative methods in research around gender, health and wellbeing.

1:00-2:00: CORTH doctoral forum introductions and refreshments

2:00-3:00 Dr Emilomo Ogbe, International Centre for Reproductive Health, Ghent University (Belgium)
The potential role of network oriented interventions for gender based violence among refugees in Belgium: Presentation and Q&A

3:00-3:15: Tea break

3:15-3:30: Dr Ben Kasstan (CORTH): male involvement in sexual and reproductive health

3:30-3:45: Dr Paul Boyce (CORTH): sexualities in the context of sexual and reproductive health research

3:45-4:15: Discussion

4:30: Close

