The Library is pleased to announce the opening of the Family Room study area located on the First Floor. The room has been created after consultation with student parents, with the pilot project running for a year initially.

The room has a safety gated play area, toys and books for a range of ages, bean bags, a quiet/feeding corner with a privacy screen, comfy chairs and study desks with plug points and wifi. There are also baby changing facilities and a water fountain on the same floor.

We have recently renovated the courtyard space with a comfortable seating area and new plants. We have also installed some new silent study spaces on the First and Second Floor.

Finding the right study space for you

We offer three types of study space to help you find the space which best suits your needs.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS AT

We are delighted that the Richard Attenborough Papers are now available for research at The Keep. The papers provide a comprehensive record of Lord Attenborough’s career as an actor, film director and producer as well as the vast network of his professional and personal associations and connections.

The main body of the archive consists of papers, correspondence and photographic material surviving from his film-making and acting work, spanning some seven decades. There is also substantial material relating to his personal life and to the acting career of his wife Sheila (née Sim).

Highlights include vast amounts of documentation relating to the Oscar - winning film Gandhi, including “Call sheet 55” which one of the most interesting documents historically in the archive. It details the particulars of filming Gandhi’s funeral sequence in which over 300,000 extras were employed. This scene still holds the world record for most extras ever employed in a film.

There is extensive correspondence with several well known figures including Lawrence Olivier and Dirk Bogart. The papers demonstrate the varied interests of Richard Attenborough, who was Chancellor of University of Sussex between 1998-2008, from his beloved Chelsea Football Club, to his charity work with the Muscular Dystrophy Group.

LIBRARY NEWS

Festival of Doctoral Research Living Library

The Library came alive in July as we hosted the Festival of Doctoral Research Living Library, a collaboration with the Doctoral School aimed at encouraging knowledge-sharing between postgraduate researchers.

In a Living Library customers borrow people and ideas, rather than books. Our postgrad ‘books’ covered everything from writer’s block and failed fieldwork to maintaining your mental health, studying part-time and juggling academia with a job and family.

The Open Learning Space was transformed, with Spence sofas and coffee tables for a relaxed vibe, while an issue desk and card catalogues leant the air of a 1980s public library. Books as well as borrowers benefitted from the opportunity to discuss PhDs in a relaxed environment. The OLS was buzzing with conversation and everyone made connections or learned something new.

New Online Resources

The Library now provides access to a selection of new digital resources, all of which can be accessed from the Online Resources A-Z or relevant Subject Guides, found at www.sussex.ac.uk/library/guides

Here are some of our new resources:

Colonial State Papers

An extensive resource on Colonial History containing over 7000 digitised hand-written documents and 40,000 records covering Britain’s relations with the Americas and other European rivals for power, as well as the Caribbean and Atlantic world.

Loeb Classical Library Online

Now you can read your favourite classics online with this complete collection of the Loeb Classical Library. Harvard University Press has produced this fully searchable virtual library which is still growing and aims to include all that is important in Greek and Roman literature.

19th American Drama: Popular Culture and Entertainment 1820-1900

This resource contains virtually every play published during this period and is a unique collection of resources that reflects 19th American political and cultural life.

Women and Social Movements in the US 1600-2000

This digital archive is a collection of innovative scholarship, primary materials, books, images, essays and reviews to help you explore the multiplicity of women’s activism in American public life from Colonial times to the present. The archive contains over 5100 documents and 175000 pages of additional full text documents written by 2800 authors, many of which were previously inaccessible.

Women’s Magazine Archive

A full colour digitised archive of magazines from the 19th and 20th centuries providing a rich insight into changing social, historical and cultural trends throughout this time. Titles included are Better Homes and Gardens (1922 to 2005), Chatelaine (1928 to 2005), Good Housekeeping (1885 – 2005), Ladies Home Journal (1883 – 2005), Parents (1926 – 2005) and Redbook (1903 – 2005).

House of Lords Parliamentary Papers

This extends our digital coverage of parliamentary papers online, complementing the House of Commons papers already available. This resource provides a complete picture of the working and influence of the UK Parliament during the 19th Century.

THE SAGE SCHOLARSHIP STUDENTS’ BLOG

In the spring newsletter, we caught up on the work our SAGE scholarship students had been doing. As their second year ends and they enter their final year, we take a look at some of the events they have been running.

Since their last update, the students ran a collaboration week with our Hive doctoral scholars, focusing on bridging the gap between undergraduate and postgraduate study. Don’t miss their podcast interview, full of practical advice and tips on postgraduate study. You will find the link in their blog post entitled: “Considering postgraduate study? Q&A podcast with postgraduate students”.

Following the Easter break, the students organised a lunchtime focus group with fellow undergraduate social science students to gather thoughts and feedback on textbook buying, information sources and resources for academic study. The focus group found that students very much judge a book by its cover, preferring books with a good use of colour, illustrations and structured layout. To read more about the feedback gathered from the focus group see the “Focus Group 1 Learning Resources” 2018 post. If you would like to take part in undergraduate student focus groups, follow @SageStudents on Twitter and Instagram for information on future events.

These are just a few highlights of the engaging activities our SAGE students have undertaken this year. There’s plenty more to come as they embark on their final year of studies, so why not follow their journey by subscribing to their blog at: http://blogs.sussex.ac.uk/sagestudents/

Changes to Interlibrary Requests

From 1st of August, there will be some changes to various aspects of the Interlibrary Requests service:

- Free ILRs will be limited to 50 for faculty, postgraduates and staff
- The free ILR limit will remain at 20 for undergraduates

For any requests above the free limit, the charges for an article will be £12.00 and for a loan will be £18.00. The cost of a renewal will be £5, in line with what we will be charged by the British Library.

The charge for obtaining an item from abroad will be £10 for an article request and £20 for a loan.

ID cards

Please do remember to bring your University ID card with you to the Library.

You may be asked to produce your ID card by a member of staff whilst using the Library building.
